

IWG Extends e-Instant Contract with BCLC

Company Will Continue to Supply InstantGames™ Through 2026

Thursday May 27, 2021: Instant Win Gaming (IWG), the leading supplier of digital e-Instant games to NASPL/WLA-member lotteries, has been awarded a five-year contract extension to continue providing the Company's InstantGames™ to the British Columbia Lottery Corporation (BCLC).

This renewed commitment demonstrates the trust that BCLC places on the developer's InstantGame content. IWG has been supplying its e-Instants to BCLC since 2018, which have consistently been strong performers, and have helped the lottery to significantly grow its digital player base.

This contract extension now sees IWG providing new and existing titles to BCLC through 2026. The Company's InstantGames will continue to be delivered to PlayNow.com via IWG's InstantsRGS™ (remote game server). This configuration supports BCLC's roadmap of releasing new IWG games every two weeks, ensuring it has fresh and engaging content to offer players on a regular basis.

The contract extension builds on the partnership between the two organizations. Earlier this year, BCLC was among the first North American lotteries to launch IWG's progressive jackpot-enabled e-Instants, which are powered by the supplier's InstantJackpots™ technology.

Rhydian Fisher, IWG CEO, said: "We're incredibly proud that BCLC has entrusted our services for a further five years. We've thoroughly enjoyed working with the Canadian lottery since 2018 and are eager to take our existing partnership to the next level through this contract extension."

"Following the successful launch of our InstantJackpots technology, we're building on this momentum by developing a variety of new concepts that will be highly beneficial to BCLC. We can't wait to release these new games later this year and help further strengthen their PlayNow.com offering."
